Target Ontario's influential leaders, decision makers and engaged citizens: community change shapers

Why Y?

Ontario's communities, leaders and citizens of influence will face unprecedented change over the next 25 years. Affordable housing and cost of living, climate change and the environment, demographics and social inequity, rural and urban economic development, health and well-being – these are just a few of the many issues our communities are facing. While short-term solutions are tempting in difficult times, they can have a negative effect on our sustainability. Thoughtful, well-considered decisions are needed to support our communities for the long-term. It is a true fork in the road. Y Magazine is designed to shape the conversation around those changes, the choice between one path over the other.

Using a deep relationship with Ontario's planning profession to create a platform of unique and bias-free content, our editorial delves into the big issues, solutions, success stories and people who lead change. It has become an invaluable resource of information and inspiration across the province for thousands of elected officials, engaged residents, business leaders and owners, and community leaders who serve our communities in all capacities.

Y Magazine is written largely by Registered Professional Planners (RPPs) and edited to cater to a broader, general audience of community change shapers. Planners understand the key issues faced by our communities today and have the expertise and access to the research that will help inform leaders and build the path to sustainable solutions for future generations.

Note: as the recognized voice of the planning profession in Ontario and as the magazine's publisher, the Ontario Professional Planners Institute (OPPI) will continue to publish necessary Institute news and information pertinent to our membership base.

Audience Profile

Core Audience: OPPI Members

Y Magazine is issued to current OPPI members. The over 4,600 members consist of full members (RPPs), candidate members and student members, but also public subscribers with an interest in community planning.

To encourage readership in our secondary audience, we share Y Magazine with the broader community by distributing copies at events, as well as virtually.

Primary Target Audience: Change Shapers

Planners partner with professionals and community leaders in a variety of disciplines and areas to affect positive, sustainable, long-term change. With Y Magazine, advertisers will target change shapers paving the way in business and economics, property development, engineering, architecture, law, environmental science, policy, public health, and researchers in all these areas and more.

The change shapers that Y Magazine targets have an employment income averaging more than $100,000 annually (2016 Census, Statistics Canada).

Editorial Calendar

Every issue of Y Magazine features big issues, solutions, success stories, and the people who are leading the change. Two issues are published each year in Spring/Summer and Fall/Winter.

Spring / Summer: Transportation and Mobility

From bike lanes to tunnels, highways to public transit, accessibility to affordability, transportation is a very hot topic in Ontario. Decisions about how to move people and products efficiently around the province are about far, far more than just vehicles. Considerations such as city and neighbourhood zoning and planning, location of community services and schools, access to employment areas, environmental impact, and infrastructure costs. Factor in climate change, provincial legislation and policies, and the principles of healthy communities. Planners understand all the angles and work to ensure the best solutions for Ontario communities, now and into the future. The spring / summer issue of Y Magazine is a focus on all forms of transportation and mobility and the perspectives that go into moving Ontario forward safely and efficiently.

Fall / Winter: Looking Ahead

By nature, planners are forward thinkers, always considering the effect decisions made today will have on the future of our communities. That means planning neighbourhoods where families can grow up safely and affordably. It means protecting green spaces and waterways for healthy, accessible recreation and to help mitigate some of harshest effects of climate change. It means considering the needs of rural communities and supporting agriculture. It means building communities where everyone is welcome. To accommodate all these factors in decisions, planners follow trends, engage with communities, and pay close attention to changes in policies. Informing choices and inspiring communities also meaning adapting the planning profession to better serve the public. The fall/winter issue of Y Magazine looks ahead at the changes and innovations planners see on the horizon and how they will influence Ontario communities.
